

INCA and INCA 2 Training

Programming INCA Configurations

The Overview

This workshop combines instructor-led training with candidate hands-on configuration exercises and assessment of the INCA unit. This training workshop equips the candidate with the necessary knowledge and tools to configure an INCA unit to report data as per the specific customer requirements for the vehicle it is in.

Objectives

INCA configuration is configured to assist customers to get the maximum from their existing fleet. Customers will cover:

- INCA Toolbox functionality
- Reconfiguration of the communications bearer (TETRA, GPRS, GSM, Paknet etc)
- Data triggers (Speed, Distance I/Os and Timers) – associated conditions and parameters for each
- Use of Input and Output devices
- Comprehension and advice on information updates
- Other devices connected to the INCA
- Creating adaptable Personality files for communications bearer and INCA configuration
- Reading, writing and saving new configurations locally and remotely (over air)
- Data versus cost - getting more for your money
- Extraction of INCA data using non-destructive methods

Target Audience

This course is intended for technical administrators with a working knowledge of the operational aspects of their organisation. APD Communications recommends this to people with a vision for adapting new INCA configurations to give the customer more useful data than is, perhaps, currently available.

Pre Requisites

Before attending this course, candidates should have:

- A working knowledge of their environment
- Knowledge of the INCA unit is preferable but not essential
